PRESS RELEASE: Motofix Group welcomes new Head of Learning & Development

Motofix Group is pleased to welcome Christopher Hamlett as Head of Learning & Development. The appointment was made to strengthen its employee development programmes; in line with the Group's strategic plan to recruit, retain and nurture future talent.

In his new role, Chris will initially assume responsibility for the training and career progression of 30 Motofix apprentices and trainees. Working in collaboration with the Group's training partners Thatcham, Babcock, S&B and Bridgwater College, Chris will also develop a series of new Apprentice and Adult Learning Programmes to support the Group's expansion.

Chris has 40 years' of industry experience and joins Motofix following managerial roles at S&B Automotive Academy, Yeovil College and Bridgwater & Taunton College. Prior to this, he worked at dealerships and independent body repair shops, before supervising the body and paint operation at a major import centre in Portbury Docks, Bristol.

Chris Hamlett said "having worked with Motofix over the past ten years at Bridgwater College and S&B Academy, I had a great opportunity to experience the company's vision for learning and development in the workplace. I am truly excited with this new appointment and look forward to contributing to the organisation's growth."
